DETAILED ACTION

Status of the Application

This Office Action is in response to applicant's response filed on 2/2/2006. Applicant's election with traverse of the restriction requirement in the reply is acknowledged. No reason for traversal was given; therefore requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL. Claims 5-7, 9-10 are pending. Claim 5 has been amended. Claims 6-7 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. The requirement for election of species has been reconsidered and withdrawn. Claims 5, 9-10 are examined herein insofar as they read on the elected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham vs John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 5, 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Gillet et al. (EP 0 434 093 A1).

The instant claims are directed to a composition comprising a compound of formula I-2.

Gillet et al. teach a phenylacetonitrile derivative of the formula I, where R_1 and R_2 are methoxy, R_3 is hydrogen, R_4 is isopropyl, R_5 is methyl, and R_6 is a branched alkyl (abstract and pg. 2, lines 21-45). Examiner notes that a homolog of the elected species is disclosed as compound 1 in Table 1, where in addition to the above, R_6 is specified as a butyl group.

However, Gillet et al. fail to specifically disclose the elected species.

It would have been prima facie obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the claimed invention was made, to disclose the specific elected species where R_6 is 3-methylbutyl group.

A person of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to specifically disclose the elected species because the elected species is within the scope of formula I as disclosed by Gillet et al. Moreover, R_6 may be a branched alkyl and according to compound 1 of Table 1, the disclosed compound is a homolog of the elected species.

What's more, the prima facie obviousness is also supported by the holding that homologs are generally of sufficiently close structural similarity that there is a presumed expectation that such compounds possess similar properties. In re Wilder, 563 F.2d 457, 195 USPQ 426 (CCPA 1977).

Art Unit: 1617

The Examiner respectfully points out that limitations regarding the preamble, intended use, or purpose of a compound or composition are given little patentable weight.

It is respectfully pointed out that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish from each other. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Thus, the intended use of a composition claim will be given no patentable weight.

It is further respectfully pointed out that a preamble is generally not accorded any patentable weight where it merely recites the purpose of a process or the intended use of a structure, and where the body of the claim does not depend on the preamble for completeness but, instead, the process steps or structural limitations are able to stand alone. See In re Hirao, 535 F.2d 67, 190 USPQ 15 (CCPA 1976) and Kropa v. Robie, 187 F.2d 150, 152, 88 USPQ 478, 481 (CCPA 1951). See MPEP 2111.02.
